DREW ROBINSON

Drew Robinson is a former Major League Baseball player, mental health advocate, and co-founder of the Better Universe Foundation.

Born and raised in Las Vegas, NV, Drew was originally drafted by the Texas Rangers out of high school and went on to play parts of 12 seasons with the Rangers, St. Louis Cardinals, and San Francisco Giants organizations. In 2020, Drew miraculously survived a suicide attempt that resulted in the loss of his right eye. In 2021, ESPN released an E60 documentary to tell Drew's story, create mental health awareness, and reduce the stigma around it. After Drew's attempt, he made a comeback to professional baseball and retired after the 2021 season to pursue a role in the mental health & wellness department with the San Francisco Giants.

Drew is passionate about advocating to prioritize our mental health, working towards accessible mental health care, and encouraging peer-to-peer support so people can share their stories and find the necessary support they need.
